Abstract

Projekttitle/ Project title:

UNIT FOUR: A modular, standardized training framework that allows an individual participant experience.

Einleitung/ Introduction:

The UNIT FOUR framework was developed as a modular and standardized training framework for intercultural trainings, that allows for unique cultural experiences for participants. The framework is designed to be measurable and repeatable.

Previous research has shown the framework to be effective in increasing knowledge, as well as providing an individual cultural perspective for participants. The research for framework is currently being expanded to include new modules, as well as cultural assessment tools to measure the intercultural competence both before and after the standardized training, in order to examine if there is a measurable increase in intercultural competence.

Ziel/ Aim:

To show the effectiveness of modular standardized training frameworks in increasing both knowledge and intercultural competence.

Methode/ Method:

The research is being done with a mixed methods approach that includes primary methods intercultural assessments, surveys, and observation.
